Dear Mr. Rosenbaum:

The MEBA Engineering School is the training facility for officers of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association. MEBA is the oldest maritime labor organization in the United States.

MEBA provides both engine and deck officers for various shipping companies of the United States Merchant Marine. MEBA members man everything from Ferry Boats to Large Oil Tankers.

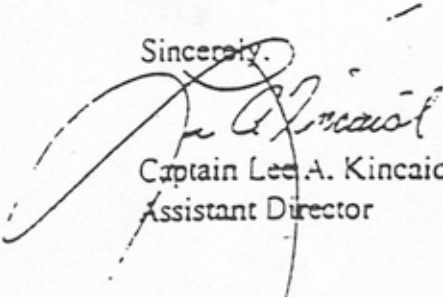

We have been using SWR One for our cleaning needs at the school for the last two years. This includes everything from windows to the bilge area of our large diesel engine trainer. We always have excellent results on any surface where we use the SWR product.

Because our facility is located on the banks of the Chesapeake Bay, we are extremely conscious of environmental factors. SWR is environmentally friendly not only to the environment itself but to our workers who use the product. SWR One emits no annoying fumes or vapors and does not cause skin irritation to even the most skin sensitive employee.

SWR One is also very cost effective. The initial product itself is extremely reasonable and also because of its wide application, it eliminates the need for purchasing multiple products for multiple cleaning tasks.

I highly recommend the use of this product.

Sincerely,

Captain Lee A. Kincaid
Assistant Director
