Subject: SWROne Degreasing Agent

Gentlemen:

I was able to witness a successful test at the James River Reserve Fleet of a new product that will benefit the Reserve Fleet in all of it's oil cleaning and abatement procedures. This product separates oil and oily waste from sand, soil and other material leaving a barrier between the product and the oil which can easily be recovered through an oil water separator. This product is called SWROne, a degreasing nontoxic compound. I have attached a company product listing and a MSDS sheet for your information. We are in the process of making more test on other applicable items that this product may be used. For further information please contact me at (202) 366-1838.
